

Will Isle of Man's new Health Service model improve patient care?

The Isle of Man's new health service model is 'on track' to deliver improvements in patient care, the health minister has said. Manx Care took over the running of services in April 2021, leaving the Department of Health and Social Care (DHSC) to manage policy and regulation.

What makes Manx care a 'person-centred' health and care service?

A service that, from prevention to cure, works together to keep people well; gives equal prioritisation to health and social care; and is one of the best 'person-centred' sustainable health and care services. Manx Care will strive to deliver the following high quality services:

Will Manx care be fully staffed?

A spokeswoman for the healthcare body said: 'Originally it was hoped that the home would be fully staffed by Manx Care, however other options are now being explored to ensure that services in the new facility will be delivered in the most efficient way, balancing value for money and high standards of care.'
