

Are Livent & allkem a good investment?

Livent and Allkem have now merged into a new top lithium company: Arcadium Lithium. On their own, Livent and Allkem were highly profitable. Together now as Arcadium, they could be in a great position to keep that run going. The lithium market is highly volatile right now, so investors should exercise some prudence.

Where are Livent & allkem based?

Additionally, Livent has a mining and refining operation under development in Quebec, Canada (the Nemaska Lithium project). Allkem is primarily a raw lithium miner, with projects cranking out the chemical in Argentina and Western Australia, a new project in development in Quebec, and a small refinery wrapping up construction in Japan.
